WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—With the senate opening momentous debate on the unprecedented lease-lend bill today, Sen. Hill, Ala. Democratic whip, announced that a last-minute canvass indicates passage of the measure by an approximate vote of 70 to 25.

The boiling situation in the Balkans and alarmist reports of possible developments in the Far East affecting Japan and the United States spurred Democratic leaders to expedite passage of the "all out" British aid program.

Sen. George (D) Ga., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was slated to begin debate for the administration, but was ordered to bed last night with a throat ailment. The opposition will be given the entire day tomorrow.

Although Democratic leaders expect they could invoke cloture to choke off a filibuster, foes of the measure emphatically denied that they would seek undue delay.

"I think the bill will pass in a couple of weeks," said Hill, after a check of the senate rolls. "It will pass in substantially the form reported by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and when the roll is called it will pass by a vote of about 70 to 25."

There is now one vacant seat due to a West Virginia contest.

Bill Foes Busy

Administration leaders stiffened their resistance to amendments as foes of the bill sought to heal a breach in their forces in an effort to force radical changes.

With Sens. Johnson, Cal., ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, and Wheeler (D) Mont., leading the opposition, unity was achieved on amendments striking at so-called "war (Continued on Page Two)

British Act To Combat Gas Attack

Seaside Resort Tested;
Isles Expecting All-Out
Attacks By Nazis

LONDON, Feb. 17—Convinced that poison gas will play a major role in Germany's attempted invasion, British authorities today staged the first gas alarm test since the war began.

The picturesque seaside resort of Brighton was chosen for the experiment. It coincided with a hardening of authoritative opinion that despite the war alarms in the Balkans and the Far East, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler will not extend the war to additional fronts.

On the contrary, it is believed, the German high command will strike in full force against England after completing the various diplomatic moves which Hitler regards as essential to protect his flanks.

Thus the Brighton test marked the final stage in Britain's preparations to defend herself and was designed to awaken the population to the necessity of carrying gas masks at all times.

Brighton, for decades the favorite shore retreat of England, presented a strange spectacle. A mild solution of tear gas was released in certain of its streets and wardens stopped all persons approaching the test area, compelling them to don their masks.

Office workers, bus conductors and everyone else in the vicinity went about their tasks with the ugly rubber and metal contraptions hiding their faces. Brighton had known for the last two days that the test was coming this morning, but there were a few "casualties" none the less.

Skeptics Curious

Some resulted from imperfect or poorly fitting masks but some of the "victims" were merely hard-to-convince skeptics who disregarded all instructions.

Athens claimed another victory over Italian forces in Albania today.

Latest reports from the Greek capital said the Greeks were attacking along the entire battle front in one of the fiercest offensives of the war, and that Italian defenses had cracked at several points, while the Greeks stormed and seized the most strategically important mountain peaks in Albania.

The retreating Italians suffered heavy losses in dead, wounded, prisoners and captured equipment, the dispatches added.

Actual fighting was somewhat on the slim side. German raids on Britain during the night were confined to raids on two towns. In one of the towns on the northeast English coast, houses were damaged and a few casualties caused by bombs, according to a London communique.

Berlin announced that German planes yesterday heavily attacked the English east coast port of Great Yarmouth and carried out smaller attacks on other British harbors.

11th Army Routed

At Athens the Greek high command said the 11th Fascist Army had been completely routed on the Albanian battle front. A Greek Military spokesman said Hellenic troops captured 2,000 Italian prisoners and large quantities of artillery and automatic arms.

In Eritrea, according to a Cairo announcement, British troops prepared for a final assault on the beleaguered town of Keren, a key railway junction.

At Vichy, Admiral Jean Darlan took the key position in the French government under Marshal Henri Philippe Petain. The Vichy cabinet shake-up is designed to withstand German pressure and defend France's fleet bases and the position agreed on under terms of the Franco-German armistice.

Pressure continued against Japan in the Far East. The British government announced the mining of a great triangular area covering all ocean lanes leading to the mighty Far Eastern base of Signapore. This move and renewed British consular advice to Britons to leave China were interpreted as aiming at prevention of any Japanese move in the South Pacific.

HAIRDRESSERS PREDICT BANGS' RETURN IN 1941

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—The 1941 feminine hair-do will bring back bangs.

This was the edict today of the New York State Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The war was expected to induce shorter hair styles to save time and effort for defense work. But, as a compromise to the expected male protest against such severe styles, bangs and waves on the forehead and sides will be featured.

Hats to go with these hair styles will be reminiscent of the 1880 mode, according to the hairdressers.

ROUTE 23 TRAVEL HALTED

Other Automobiles Removed From Burning Carrier
Sunday Evening

Collision of a Columbus car and a motor transport on Route 23 near South Bloomfield Sunday about 10 p. m. sent two persons to Mercy Hospital, Columbus, with severe injuries and caused many hundreds of dollars of damages to the motor transport and the four new Plymouth cars it carried.

The injured were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bruckelmeyer, 247 Lansing Street, Columbus. Mr. Bruckelmeyer was reported by hospital authorities to be suffering from a dislocated left shoulder and an arm and scalp wound. His wife suffered wrist dislocations, hip and back injuries.

Driver of the transport truck, owned by the Case Driveway Company, Barnesville, W. Va., was Harold Shy, 22, 443 West Tenth Street, Huntington, W. Va., who suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Shy told Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer, investigating officer, that he did not know what happened. The motor transport, traveling south, was jack-knifed across the road by the impact of the crash. The wheels of the tractor were resting at the edge of the west berm, with the trailer resting cross-wise of the highway.

Fire Envelopes Cars

Almost immediately a fire, believed to have started from a damaged gasoline tank in the truck, enveloped the cab and tractor, destroying the upper and lower front cars on the trailer. Drivers of other transports and officers were able to get the two rear cars from the trailer before severe damage was done, but the heat from the fire prevented them from saving the other two cars.

Ashville's fire department was called, but was able to do little to save either the transport or the two cars that remained on it.

The automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Bruckelmeyer were riding, a 1932 Buick coupe, rested with its front wheels on the west side of the highway and its rear end in the ditch, nearly 78 feet north of the motor truck. Its left front side was damaged considerably.

First to arrive at the scene after the accident was Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, East Main Street, who was driving behind the transport. Mrs. Defenbaugh said that her car was some distance behind the truck when she saw the vehicle burst into flames. She did not see the collision, and when she arrived both Mr. and Mrs. Bruckelmeyer were out of the car. They were taken to Mercy Hospital by the Schlegel Ambulance, Ashville.

Traffic Detoured

The burning wreckage held up Sunday evening traffic on Route 23 for more than half an hour, with cars lined up for nearly half a mile each side of the scene. Part of the traffic was detoured around the Cromley road.

The motor truck was towed into Circleville Monday morning.

Truckers said Monday that the burned automobiles were insured during transit.

Slight damage was done to the cars of Samuel Cook, Circleville Route 3, and the Rev. O. L. Ferguson, 451 East Ohio Street, when the two collided on North Court Street Saturday night. The right front fender of Cook's car and the rear bumper of Ferguson's car, were damaged.

Traffic Officer Miller Fissell said Cook was following the Ferguson car and struck it when it slowed down for traffic.

Hurricane Fatal to 500 In Lisbon; Blaze, Train Wreck Kill Many More

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 17—Killing and injuring hundreds, a furious hurricane that roared across Lisbon and Portugal into northern Spain left a trail of havoc in its wake today.

As many as 500 casualties were reported in Lisbon, while in northern Spain two separate disasters—a train wreck and a raging fire in the seaport city of Santander—killed an estimated 22 persons and injured 44.

JUDGE CHANGES KILLER'S MOOD WITH SENTENCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—Stanley Cole, convicted murderer, swaged confidently into court for sentence today. The jury that found him guilty of killing Mrs. Hannah Downing, 70-year-old shoeleather peddler, had recommended mercy.

Usually, that recommendation means life imprisonment—and so Cole was in a hard-boiled mood as he faced Judge James G. Wallace in General Sessions.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is passed?" asked Judge Wallace.

"Nothing," snarled Cole confidently—"nothing at all, to you."

One moment later Judge Wallace had sentenced him to die in the electric chair next month. Cole, his face blenching, heard Judge Wallace explain the statute permitting jury recommendations does not make acceptance of the recommendation mandatory on the court. The law says merely that the judge "may" impose a life sentence.

Cole was led from the court, bound for a death cell in Sing Sing. He was convicted of beating the aged sidewalk merchant to death when she tore a mask from his face during an attempted robbery.

In sentencing Cole, Judge Wallace cited his lengthy criminal record and described him as "cold, ruthless and cunning."

DOG GUARDS HIS MASTER TOO WELL; ILLNESS FATAL

LORAIN, O., Feb. 17—Devotion of a mongrel dog for his stricken master today was listed as a contributing factor in the death of John Mulvey, 65-year-old painter.

Ambulance attendants called to the Mulvey home when he was stricken with a sudden illness, were unable to remove him to the hospital because of the dog that stood guard over him as he lay on the floor.

Not until the dog was lassoed were the rescuers able to touch Mulvey, who died in the hospital a few hours later.

200 Houses Burn

Spanish officials said the flames destroyed 200 houses at Santander, but disruption of communications prevented any exact estimate of the casualties there.

Many houses in the Pineda quarter of Santander were still burning furiously early this morning. Some reports said that Santander cathedral was among the damaged buildings.

Leaders Of House, Senate
Called Later In Day
To Hear Details

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins, his personal observer who has just returned from England, burned the "midnight oil" far into the night canvassing the entire picture of British needs.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said that the chief executive and Hopkins were closeted until 2 a. m. Monday, and resumed again at 9 a. m. over the breakfast table.

Further, Early disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt had scheduled a busy day for the one-time social worker, calling him for conferences with the executive's legislative advisers and members of the cabinet who will handle the lease-lend program once it is enacted by congress.

For lunch, Mr. Roosevelt invited Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau to confer with him and Hopkins, and Early announced that Hopkins and Secretary of State Hull would hold a session later in the day.

It was quite evident that the purpose of all these conferences was the desire of Mr. Roosevelt to have Hopkins elaborate in detail what he had told newsmen on his arrival from London—that Britain "desperately needs American material aid, but not American man-power, to stand the Germans off."

Winant There, Too

John G. Winant, newly appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James, with whom Hopkins discussed the British situation for some time in New York yesterday, also is expected for further conferences and instructions.

Hopkins' report is expected to bear much weight in senate consideration of the administration measure for "all-out" aid to the embattled British. While the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has closed its hearings, information gained by the President's observer was expected to be relayed, by word of mouth, to administration senate forces to strengthen their arguments in the debate beginning during the day.

To what extent he would reveal to the congressional leaders, the secret confidential mission on which he admitted to newsmen the President had sent him, how (Continued on Page Two)

BETTMAN FINED $10 AND COSTS FOR VIOLATION

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17—Although protesting his innocence, State Supreme Court Judge Gilbert Bettman was fined $10 and costs on a speeding charge today by Judge Otis R. Hess in traffic court.

Against the contention of the supreme court judge that he was not speeding was the testimony of Patrolman Albert White that Bettman was driving his car 58 miles an hour one day last week.

"In your case, as in all other cases, to render judgment is a most unwelcome task," said Judge Hess in imposing the fine on Bettman.

The motor truck was towed into Circleville Monday morning.

Truckers said Monday that the burned automobiles were insured during transit.

Slight damage was done to the cars of Samuel Cook, Circleville, Route 3, and the Rev. O. L. Ferguson, 451 East Ohio Street, when the two collided on North Court Street Saturday night. The right front fender of Cook's car and the rear bumper of Ferguson's car, were damaged.

Traffic Officer Miller Fissell said Cook was following the Ferguson car and struck it when it slowed down for traffic.

1964 Candidate and First Lady

Bonnie Toffer Bill Belt

"RELY on Belt—save your pants" is the slogan that will carry the winner into the White House after the presidential inauguration in 1964—Bill Belt hopes. Bill, a 17-year-old Hermiston, Ore., youth with ambition (unlimited) and hope (undaunted), has embarked already on his campaign to win the presidency in that year. A national committee has been organized, the cabinet selected and the campaign launched. There even is a First Lady in sight—via the contest route. One of the leading candidates for the honor is 16-year-old Bonnie Toffer, shown discussing First Lady contest plans with Bill.

Hurricane Fatal to 500 In Lisbon; Blaze, Train Wreck Kill Many More

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 17—Killing and injuring hundreds, a furious hurricane that roared across Lisbon and Portugal into northern Spain left a trail of havoc in its wake today.

As many as 500 casualties were reported in Lisbon, while in northern Spain two separate disasters—a train wreck and a raging fire in the seaport city of Santander—killed an estimated 22 persons and injured 44.

(Editor's Note: Disrupted communications seemingly prevented a fully accurate count of casualties. The London Daily Telegraph reported that 25 persons had been killed in Lisbon. Other reports told of scores of deaths in the capital and other sections of Portugal.)

Lisbon looked like a "blitzed" city after being hit by the hurricane. Property damage was heavy.

JUDGE CHANGES KILLER'S MOOD WITH SENTENCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 — Stanley Cole, convicted murderer, swaged confidently into court for sentence today. The jury that found him guilty of killing Mrs. Hannah Downing, 70-year-old shoe lace peddler, had recommended mercy.

Usually, that recommendation means life imprisonment—and so Cole was in a hard-boiled mood as he faced Judge James G. Wallace in General Sessions.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is passed?" asked Judge Wallace.

"Nothing," snarled Cole confidently — "nothing at all, to you."

One moment later Judge Wallace had sentenced him to die in the electric chair next month. Cole, his face blenching, heard Judge Wallace explain the statute permitting jury recommendations does not make acceptance of the recommendation mandatory on the court. The law says merely that the judge "may" impose a life sentence.

Cole was led from the court, bound for a death cell in Sing Sing. He was convicted of beating the aged sidewalk merchant to death when she tore a mask from his face during an attempted robbery.

In sentencing Cole, Judge Wallace cited his lengthy criminal record and described him as "cold, ruthless and cunning."

DOG GUARDS HIS MASTER TOO WELL; ILLNESS FATAL

LORAIN, O., Feb. 17—Devotion of a mongrel dog for his stricken master today was listed as a contributing factor in the death of John Mulvey, 65-year-old painter.

Ambulance attendants called to the Mulvey home when he was stricken with a sudden illness, were unable to remove him to the hospital because of the dog that stood guard over him as he lay on the floor.

Not until the dog was lassoed were the rescuers able to touch Mulvey, who died in the hospital a few hours later.

INFORMATION OF VALUE

Leaders Of House, Senate Called Later In Day To Hear Details

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins, his personal observer who has just returned from England, burned the "midnight oil" far into the night canvassing the entire picture of British needs.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said that the chief executive and Hopkins were closeted until 2 a. m. Monday, and resumed again at 9 a. m. over the breakfast table.

Further, Early disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt had scheduled a busy day for the one-time social worker, calling him for conferences with the executive's legislative advisers and members of the cabinet who will handle the lease-lend program once it is enacted by congress.

For lunch, Mr. Roosevelt invited Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau to confer with him and Hopkins, and Early announced that Hopkins and Secretary of State Hull would hold a session later in the day.

It was quite evident that the purpose of all these conferences was the desire of Mr. Roosevelt to have Hopkins elaborate in detail what he had told newsmen on his arrival from London—that Britain "desperately needs American material aid, but not American man-power, to stand the Germans off."

Winant There, Too

John G. Winant, newly appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James, with whom Hopkins discussed the British situation for some time in New York yesterday, also is expected for further conferences and instructions.

Hopkins' report is expected to bear much weight in senate consideration of the administration measure for "all-out" aid to the embattled British. While the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has closed its hearings, information gained by the President's observer was expected to be relayed, by word of mouth, to administration senate forces to strengthen their arguments in the debate beginning during the day.

To what extent he would reveal to the congressional leaders, the secret confidential mission on which he admitted to newsmen the President had sent him, how (Continued on Page Two)

BETTMAN FINED $10 AND COSTS FOR VIOLATION

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17 — Although protesting his innocence, State Supreme Court Judge Gilbert Bettman was fined $10 and costs on a speeding charge today by Judge Otis R. Hess in traffic court.

Against the contention of the supreme court judge that he was not speeding was the testimony of Patrolman Albert White that Bettman was driving his car 58 miles an hour one day last week.

"In your case, as in all other cases, to render judgment is a most unwelcome task," said Judge Hess in imposing the fine on Bettman.

Miss Kathryn Leist, a trained nurse of Columbus, daughter of Mrs. Harley Leist of West Mill Street, has been called into service in the Army leaving Saturday for Fort Jackson, Columbia, S. C.

powers" given in the bill to the President.

The group, which includes last-ditch foes of the bill and others who favor British aid but want drastic modifications, failed to agree on the substitute plan of Sen. Taft (R) Ohio to provide $2,000,000,000 credits to Great Britain and deny extraordinary powers to the President.

In spite of refusal of last-ditch opponents, such as Wheeler and Johnson, to support the Taft substitute, the Ohio senator planned to make a strong floor fight for it.

Objectives Listed

Opposition senators, it was announced, will concentrate on these proposed amendments:

Prohibit transfer of any part of navy; prohibit sending of second A. E. F. to Europe; require Britain to state war aims; direct prohibition against convoy of merchant ships and, require approval of the secretaries of war and navy and chief of staff of army and chief of naval operations to any transfer of arms.

"I think we will be able to adopt some important amendments," said Wheeler. "I think we ought to adopt an amendment providing none of our ships shall be given away. I cannot see any objection to it, as Secretary of the Navy Knox said that President Roosevelt would stand on his head before he would do it."

"I see no reason why we should not give a pledge against sending an expeditionary force abroad, as the President made such a pledge in his Philadelphia speech."

"We should require Britain to make known her war aims before they get any money and congress and the President should be satisfied before the money is spent."

Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., sought to rally Republicans behind the bill, while demanding important amendments. He said that "if we get certain further amendments I believe we could get one-half of the Republicans to vote for the bill."

Bridges will strive for an amendment prohibiting purchase of arms for Russia. Aroused by reports that the bill would suspend 29 laws—including one which now prohibits purchase of products of forced labor, intended as a slap at Russia—he planned an investigation of this phase.

Willkie Plea Rejected

While flatly rejecting the proposal of Wendell L. Willkie to name countries to receive aid, Democratic leaders considered an amendment which, in addition to limiting aid to where "it will assist American defense, to also limit aid to "countries which are invaded or threatened with invasion." This amendment, at first reported to be a compromise with Willkie's proposal, was designed to exclude Russia, it was learned.

Meantime, the Senate Military Affairs Committee planned a session this week to quiz Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, on the effect of lease-lend transfers on American defense.

THIRD OF REGISTRANTS DROPPED, MEDICO CLAIMS

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—Almost a third of the registrants examined by draft board physicians are rejected because of physical or mental deficiencies, it was disclosed today by Col. Leonard G. Rowntree of Washington, D. C., chief of the medical division of the Selective Service System.

Col. Rowntree placed the number of rejections by local boards at 32 percent, and said that in addition 12 percent of the draftees are turned down by army doctors at induction centers. Major cause of rejections, he said, is defective teeth, for which 17 percent are rejected at draft boards and 22 percent at induction centers. Heart ailments, poor sight, muscular defects and mental and nervous disorders are other principal causes.

HAYS ISSUES WARNING

Postmaster Hulse Hays, Monday, warned persons mailing income tax returns at the local postoffice to be certain that the letter contained sufficient postage and that the owner's name be written on the envelope. Letters which carry insufficient postage and bear no return address must be sent to the dead letter office, the postmaster said.

European Bulletins

WASHINGTON — Wendell L. Willkie, recently returned from a personal survey of war conditions in London, today belittled reports that he would go to China for a similar study. The 1940 GOP nominee, in Washington where he attended a reception in his honor last night by the Women's Press Club, said: "There has been some talk of that, but the chances are overwhelmingly against it."

TOKYO—Possibility of a United States-Mexican military agreement was placed before the budget committee of the Japanese house of representatives today by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka. Matsuoka declined to divulge the government's attitude toward such an eventuality.

TOKYO—Japan plans to seek the solution of her problems in the South Seas through peaceful negotiations rather than war, Shintaro Ohashi, Japanese vice foreign minister, announced in the house of representatives today.

LONDON—London this afternoon had its 475th air raid alarm of the war.

CHILLY WIND PREVAILING IN CENTRAL OHIO REGION

A chilly wind, Monday, made temperatures in and around Circleville seem lower than they actually were, the official low temperature being 29.

An inch of snow fell during Sunday night, slowing down late Sunday evening traffic, but by Monday most of the snow had melted and road conditions in the county were reported good. Highway crews were sanding hills and curves in some places.

The wet snow was expected to push the Scioto River stage which fell nearly 1½ feet during the night back to the ten foot stage. The river stage Monday was 8½ feet.

The northern part of the state was blanketed with snow Monday with snow plows and cinderers crews working to clear highways for traffic.

Cloudy and colder weather was predicted for Tuesday.

"I was sent over to do a job involving a discussion of something of mutual and urgent interest to the two governments. That's all I can say."

Hopkins was emphatic in his praise of the English people, and particularly of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, asserting:

"I don't think Hitler can lick the British. They are expecting some hard punishment from an attempted invasion, but they are tough and I believe they can take it."

"They have wonderful leadership. Churchill is a great man. The spirit of the men in the street and the soldiers is wonderful."

Whether he had brought back a personal message to Mr. Roosevelt from Churchill, he declined to discuss.

suffered would guarantee against a repetition.

The Brighton performance gave all London papers an opportunity to renew their frequent warnings that gas will undoubtedly come before the arrival of German invasion troops. Civilians are not being evacuated from any British coastal areas. They are, as a matter of fact, being told to stay put. But they must carry their gas masks.

The inevitable result was to shift public attention from German moves in the Balkans. Official reports received in London said that ostensible German preparations for a drive through Bulgaria are complete. But many qualified observers are not satisfied that the Nazi program calls for actual war.

Also, all Britons do not accept the popular consensus that Yugoslavia was "sold out" to the Germans. The Yugoslav situation is expected to be publicized if not clarified in the coming week and neutral diplomatic circles forecast the ascension of a full-fledged Balkan "balloon" in the next few days.

But in the opinion of best qualified observers, Hitler remains primarily interested in England and is going to try invasion.

'FLASH' BANDIT ESCAPES CELL, HOLDS UP STORE

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17—William Davidson, 18, the Newport "flash bandit," escaped from the Covington, Ky., jail, stole an auto and held up a delicatessen all within an hour, Covington police reported today.

Convicted last Tuesday on an armed robbery charge, the fugitive faces a sentence of 10 years in prison.

City Jailor Reynold Jobert blamed his uncle, Edward Jobert, the turnkey, for laxity, declaring he had left a key in a door leading to the basement through which Davidson escaped.

COUNCIL TO MEET WITH SOE MEN ABOUT LIGHTS

City Council, with its plans for reducing city street-lighting costs by installing new-type lamps under consideration, is expected to take definite action on the issue when it meets in regular session Wednesday night.

The proposal, which calls for 24 candlepower and 160 one hundred candlepower bulbs to replace the 149 four hundred, 33 one hundred and two 250s now used, is expected to save the city nearly $3,000.

Accurate cost figures will be presented at Wednesday night's meeting.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. Horticulturist

QUESTION: What lilies are easily grown from seed?

ANSWER: The following lilies if planted this spring should come up within a few weeks' time: Regale, formosum (philippinense), concolor, umbellatum, pumilum (tenuifolium), elegans, Crows hybrids, willmottiae, amabile, candidum, henryi, maximowiczii, callosum, cernuum, dauricum, davidi, sargentii, princeps hybrids. A few of these will bloom next summer and the majority the second summer if they are kept growing.

QUESTION: How is the mosaic disease of lilies recognized?

ANSWER: The mosaic disease of lilies, which is a virus, is carried from one diseased lily to another by the melon aphid and possibly other insects. It is also carried from diseased tulips to lilies. There are a number of manifestations including a light and dark green mottling of the leaves, a distortion of the growth of the tip of the stem, a distortion of the shape and color of the lily flower, the blighting of the stem of the lily itself, and finally complete death of the bulb.

These symptoms are given more or less in the order in which they will appear from the time the lily is infected.

QUESTION: Is the mosaic disease of lilies carried in the soil or will it be transmitted by the seed?

ANSWER: No, as soon as the lily bulb dies the disease dies with it. Bulbs grown from seed, if kept isolated from diseased lilies or from mosaic-infected tulips, will be free from the disease.

QUESTION: Are there any lilies which are immune or resistant to the mosaic?

ANSWER: Yes, the following lilies are either immune or very highly resistant: Hanson, martagon, martagon album, willmottiae, davidi, and Hanson-martagon hybrids. The following are relatively resistant: browni, pardalinum, henryi, Lillina Cummings, Phyllis Cox, Brenda Watts, and Edna Keene.

QUESTION: How often do daffodils have to be transplanted and when?

ANSWER: I would leave daffodils in the ground for at least four or five years or until such time as the bulbs become so small that they either have small flowers or cease to bloom entirely. I would dig them up after the foliage is yellowing and starting to die down. Although the usual practice is to store them in the cellar or garage over summer, I replant mine immediately since it saves the necessity of keeping the varieties labeled during summer.

QUESTION: Can daffodils be grown in the shade?

ANSWER: Yes, I have a number in my yard under large oak trees and under large Norway maples where they get no sun after the trees leaf out.

QUESTION: Is it possible to grow daffodils under ground covers such as periwinkle, English ivy, and wintercreeper?

ANSWER: Yes, I have a number of mine growing under heavy covers of all three of these ground covers.

QUESTION: When should grape hyacinths and crocus be divided?

ANSWER: Like the daffodils, I would dig them when the foliage starts to yellow and die down naturally. Separate and replant them immediately.

QUESTION: What is the difference between daffodils, narcissus, and jonquils?

ANSWER: Although many home gardeners and florists insist that they are all jonquils, actually they are not. All of this group are botanically called narcissus. The common name for them is daffodils. One particular group with relatively small yellow flowers, two to three to a stem, and almost round leaves instead of flat leaves, are the jonquils. In other words, you see relatively few jonquils compared to the other kinds of daffodils. Incidentally, the jonquils have been hybridized with the others until there are jonquil hybrids which have larger flowers and more or less flat leaves.

QUESTION: What shrubs can I plant in front of my house in the shade of several large shade trees?

ANSWER: There are a number of deciduous shrubs that will grow under these conditions including the fiveleaf aralia, red chokeberry, Mentor barberry, oakleaf hydrangea, yellow kerria, Ithya privet, Regel privet glossy buckthorn, fragrant sumac, Alpine currant, Morrow honeysuckle, and Tatarian honeysuckle.

QUESTION: When may lilies be transplanted?

ANSWER: Although lilies normally are sold in the fall and are best when planted at that time, it is sometimes difficult to transplant them in the home garden in the fall because of not knowing their exact location. George Slate, whose book Lilies for American Gardens is an outstanding source of information on this subject, claims you can transplant lilies any time as long as you do not disturb the roots and do not injure their growing tips. For instance, I will transplant some of those in my garden this spring after they are two or three inches high so that I know where they are growing.

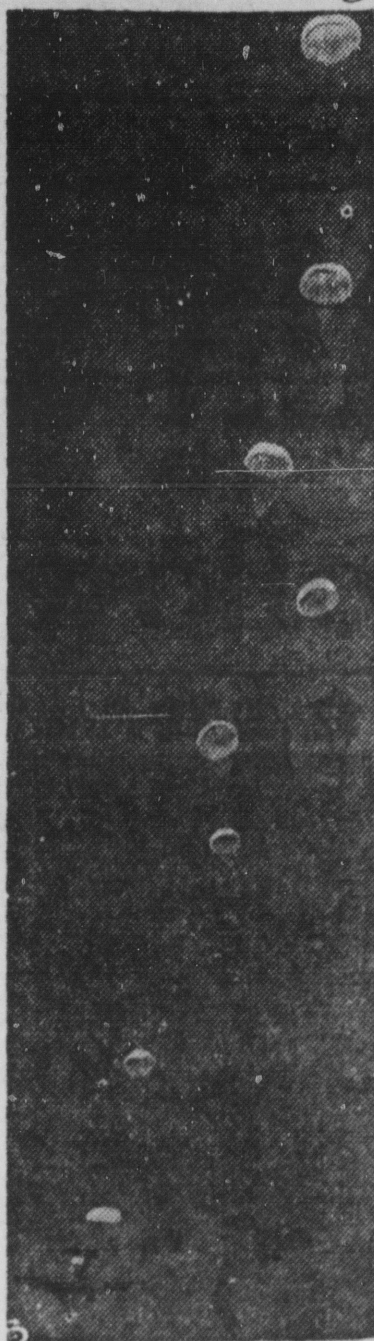

QUESTION: What is the true name for those beautiful blue morning glories, the kind that does not seed itself as I do not want them coming up all over the garden next year. What about Scarlet O'Hara? Is there more than one kind of these? Mrs. H. M. Pemberville.

ANSWER: I believe you are referring to the heavenly blue morning glory. These will not, as far as I know, self-seed in Ohio. You will find an improved early flowering variety listed in most of the catalogs. The Scarlet O'Hara morning glory, as I have seen it growing, has not come up to the anticipation of most people buying it for its name. I believe you will find the variety Cornell, red with a white edge, is a better color and a better bloomer.

QUESTION: I wonder if you could tell me what kind of insects make the eggs or nests on the backs of the inclosed leaves and what to do about them. I get them only on the strawberry geranium and the branching ivy although they receive weekly washings. Then, too, last spring I planted what I thought would be lovely perennials. Painted Daisies, poppies, and hardy carnations, but I never saw them bloom. As fast as the new shoots or buds would appear the rabbits would eat them off. A neighbor told me to try bloodmeal but I had no success with that. Is there any way I can prevent this from happening again this spring or should I give up these particular perennials? Mrs. J. W. V. Cincinnati.

ANSWER: The leaves of the "strawberry geranium" that you sent in were infested with scale insects. On most house plants, they may be scrubbed off with a soft brush and strong soap suds but because of the soft material of the leaves and the hairy surface, I am afraid you will have to spray these with an oil spray. There is one sold under a trade name for this purpose. Incidentally, this plant is not a geranium or begonia but is a saxifrage. This is perfectly hardy and has lived out-of-doors in my garden growing on the surface of a pitted limestone rock in the shade of an oak tree. It has withstood 22 degrees below zero.

Bridges will strive for an amendment prohibiting purchase of arms for Russia. Aroused by reports that the bill would suspend 29 laws—including one which now prohibits purchase of products of forced labor, intended as a slap at Russia—he planned an investigation of this phase.

Willkie Plea Rejected

While flatly rejecting the proposal of Wendell L. Willkie to name countries to receive aid, Democratic leaders considered an amendment which, in addition to limiting aid to where "it will assist American defense, to also limit aid to 'countries which are invaded or threatened with invasion.' This amendment, at first reported to be a compromise with Willkie's proposal, was designed to exclude Russia, it was learned.

Meantime, the Senate Military Affairs Committee planned a session this week to quiz Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, on the effect of lease-lend transfers on American defense.

THIRD OF REGISTRANTS DROPPED, MEDICO CLAIMS

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—Almost a third of the registrants examined by draft board physicians are rejected because of physical or mental deficiencies, it was disclosed today by Col. Leonard G. Rowntree of Washington, D. C., chief of the medical division of the Selective Service System.

Col. Rowntree placed the number of rejections by local boards at 32 percent, and said that in addition 12 percent of the draftees are turned down by army doctors at induction centers. Major cause of rejections, he said, is defective teeth, for which 17 percent are rejected at draft-boards and 22 percent at induction centers. Heart ailments, poor sight, muscular defects and mental and nervous disorders are other principal causes.

HAYS ISSUES WARNING

Postmaster Hulse Hays, Monday, warned persons mailing income tax returns at the local postoffice to be certain that the letter contained sufficient postage and that the owner's name be written on the envelope. Letters which carry insufficient postage and bear no return address must be sent to the dead letter office, the postmaster said.

WASHINGTON — Wendell L. Willkie, recently returned from a personal survey of war conditions in London, today belittled reports that he would go to China for a similar study. CHILLY WIND PREVAILING IN CENTRAL OHIO REGION

A chilly wind, Monday, made temperatures in and around Circleville seem lower than they actually were, the official low temperature being 29.

An inch of snow fell during Sunday night, slowing down late Sunday evening traffic, but by Monday most of the snow had melted and road conditions in the county were reported good. Highway crews were sanding hills and curves in some places.

The wet snow was expected to push the Scioto River stage which fell nearly 1 1/2 feet during the night back to the ten foot stage. The river stage Monday was 8 1/2 feet.

The northern part of the state was blanketed with snow Monday with snow plows and cinderling crews working to clear highways for traffic.

Cloudy and colder weather was predicted for Tuesday.

Hopkins was emphatic in his praise of the English people, and particularly of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, asserting:

"I don't think Hitler can lick the British. They are expecting some hard punishment from an attempted invasion, but they are tough and I believe they can take it."

"They have wonderful leadership. Churchill is a great man. The spirit of the men in the street and the soldiers is wonderful."

suffered would guarantee against a repetition.

The Brighton performance gave all London papers an opportunity to renew their frequent warnings that gas will undoubtedly come before the arrival of German invasion troops. Civilians are not being evacuated from any British coastal areas. They are, as a matter of fact, being told to stay put. But they must carry their gas masks.

The inevitable result was to shift public attention from German moves in the Balkans. Official reports received in London said that ostensible German preparations for a drive through Bulgaria are complete. But many qualified observers are not satisfied that the Nazi program calls for actual war.

Also, all Britons do not accept the popular consensus that Yugoslavia was "sold out" to the Germans. The Yugoslav situation is expected to be publicized if not clarified in the coming week and neutral diplomatic circles forecast the ascension of a full-fledged Balkan "balloon" in the next few days.

But in the opinion of best qualified observers, Hitler remains primarily interested in England and is going to try invasion.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17—William Davidson, 18, the Newport "flash bandit," escaped from the Covington, Ky., jail, stole an auto and held up a delicatessen all within an hour, Covington police reported today.

Convicted last Tuesday on an armed robbery charge, the fugitive faces a sentence of 10 years in prison.

City Council, with its plans for reducing city street-lighting costs by installing new-type lamps under consideration, is expected to take definite action on the issue when it meets in regular session Wednesday night.

The proposal, which calls for 24 candlepower and 160 one hundred candlepower bulbs to replace the 149 four hundred, 33 one hundred and two 250s now used, is expected to save the city nearly $5,000.

Accurate cost figures will be presented at Wednesday night's meeting.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. Horticulturist

QUESTION: What lilies are easily grown from seed?

ANSWER: The following lilies if planted this spring should come up within a few weeks' time: Regale, formosanum (philippinense), concolor, umbellatum, pumilum (tenuifolium), elegans, Crocus hybrids, willmottiae, amabile, candidum, henryi, maximowiczii, callosum, cernuum, dauricum, davidi, sargentii, princeps hybrids. A few of these will bloom next summer and the majority the second summer if they are kept growing.

QUESTION: How is the mosaic disease of lilies recognized?

ANSWER: The mosaic disease of lilies, which is a virus, is carried from one diseased lily to another by the melon aphid and possibly other insects. It is also carried from diseased tulips to lilies. There are a number of manifestations including a light and dark green mottling of the leaves, a distortion of the growth of the tip of the stem, a distortion of the shape and color of the lily flower, the blighting of the stem of the lily itself, and finally complete death of the bulb.

These symptoms are given more or less in the order in which they will appear from the time the lily is infected.

QUESTION: Is the mosaic disease of lilies carried in the soil or will it be transmitted by the seed?

ANSWER: No, as soon as the lily bulb dies the disease dies with it. Bulbs grown from seed, if kept isolated from diseased lilies or from mosaic-infected tulips, will be free from the disease.

QUESTION: Are there any lilies which are immune or resistant to the mosaic?

ANSWER: Yes, the following lilies are either immune or very highly resistant: Hanson, martagon, martagon album, willmottiae, davidi, and Hanson-martagon hybrids. The following are relatively resistant: brown, pardinum, henryi, Lillina Cummings, Phyllis Cox, Brenda Watts, and Edna Keene.

QUESTION: How often do daffodils have to be transplanted and when?

ANSWER: I would leave daffodils in the ground for at least four or five years or until such time as the bulbs become so small that they either have small flowers or cease to bloom entirely. I would dig them up after the foliage is yellowing and starting to die down. Although the usual practice is to store them in the cellar or garage over summer, I replant mine immediately since it saves the necessity of keeping the varieties labeled during summer.

QUESTION: Can daffodils be grown in the shade?

ANSWER: Yes, I have a number in my yard under large oak trees and under large Norway maples where they get no sun after the trees leaf out.

QUESTION: Is it possible to grow daffodils under ground covers such as periwinkle, English ivy, and wintercreeper?

ANSWER: Yes, I have a number of mine growing under heavy covers of all three of these ground covers.

QUESTION: When should grape hyacinths and crocus be divided?

ANSWER: Like the daffodils, I would dig them when the foliage starts to yellow and die down naturally. Separate and replant them immediately.

QUESTION: What is the difference between daffodils, narcissus, and jonquils?

ANSWER: Although many home gardeners and florists insist that they are all jonquils, actually they are not. All of this group are botanically called narcissus. The common name for them is daffodils. One particular group with relatively small yellow flowers, two to three to a stem, and almost round leaves instead of flat leaves, are the jonquils. In other words, you see relatively few jonquils compared to the other kinds of daffodils. Incidentally, the jonquils have been hybridized with the others until there are jonquil hybrids which have larger flowers and more or less flat leaves.

QUESTION: What shrubs can I plant in front of my house in the shade of several large shade trees?

ANSWER: There are a number of deciduous shrubs that will grow under these conditions including the fiveleaf aralia, red chokeberry, Mentor barberry, oakleaf hydrangea, yellow kerria, Iboea privet, Regal privet glossy buckthorn, fragrant sumac, Alpine currant, Morrow honeysuckle, and Tatarian honeysuckle.

QUESTION: When may lilies be transplanted?

ANSWER: Although lilies normally are sold in the fall and are best when planted at that time, it is sometimes difficult to transplant them in the home garden in the fall because of not knowing their exact location. George Slate, whose book Lilies for American Gardens is an outstanding source of information on this subject, claims you can transplant lilies any time as long as you do not disturb the roots and do not injure their growing tips. For instance, I will transplant some of those in my garden this spring after they are two or three inches high so that I know where they are growing.

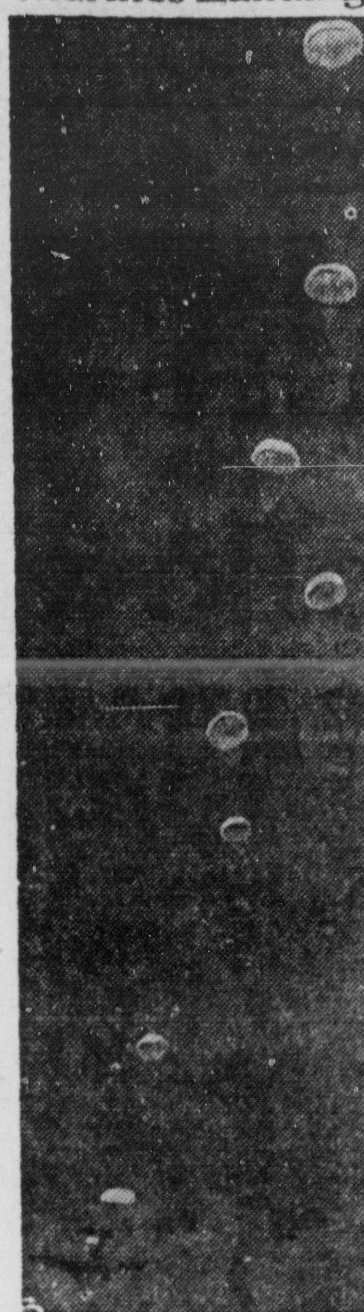

QUESTION: What is the true name for those beautiful blue morning glories, the kind that does not seed itself as I do not want them coming up all over the garden next year. What about Scarlet O'Hara? Is there more than one kind of these? Mrs. H. M., Pemberville.

ANSWER: I believe you are referring to the heavenly blue morning glory. These will not, so far as I know, self-seed in Ohio. You will find an improved early flowering variety listed in most of the catalogs. The Scarlet O'Hara morning glory, as I have seen it growing, has not come up to the anticipation of most people buying it for its name. I believe you will find the variety Cornell, red with a white edge, is a better color and a better bloomer.

QUESTION: I wonder if you could tell me what kind of insects make the eggs or nests on the backs of the inclosed leaves and what to do about them. I get them only on the strawberry geranium and the branching ivy although they receive weekly washings. Then, too, last spring I planted what I thought would be lovely perennials. Painted Daisies, poppies, and hardy carnations, but I never saw them bloom. As fast as the new shoots or buds would appear the rabbits would eat them off. A neighbor told me to try bloodmeal but I had no success with that. Is there any way I can prevent this from happening again this spring or should I give up these particular perennials? Mrs. J. W. V., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: The leaves of the "strawberry geranium" that you sent in were infested with scale insects. On most house plants they may be scrubbed off with a soft brush and strong soad suds but because of the soft material of the leaves and the hairy surface, I am afraid you will have to spray these with an oil spray. There is one sold under a trade name for this purpose. Incidentally, this plant is not a geranium or begonia but is a saxifrage. This is perfectly hardy and has lived out-of-doors in my garden growing on the surface of a pitted limestone rock in the shade of an oak tree. It has withstood 22 degrees below zero.

PRO-NAZI UNIT TO HARASS U. S. BEING CHECKED

Mexican Interior Office
Hears Reports About
Secret Society

DESERTERS QUESTIONED

Uprisings In Brazil, Other
Centers Hinted; Plot
Details Prepared

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 17—A secret pro-Nazi organization allegedly embracing 150,000 members and preparing to foment trouble if the United States assumes an active role in the war was under investigation by the Mexican interior ministry today.

Deserters from the organization were reported to have informed authorities that armed raids across the southern Mexican border from Guatemala have been planned by the pro-Nazi group to create disturbances.

These sources said the organization has been named the "League of National Socialist Partisans" and that 250 Nazi Gestapo agents are in Mexico to guide its activities.

In addition, it was claimed that members of the Falange (Spanish Fascist) Society in Mexico are counted on to cooperate in causing disturbances in Mexico. According to this information, some 200,000 Falangists in Mexico look to Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco to give them the signal to start trouble.

Others To Rise

Deserters from the underground society claimed in their statements to authorities that all Nazi activities in Mexico would coincide with uprisings, sabotage and anti-American demonstrations in Brazil, Uruguay and other Latin-American countries.

These informants said a plot exists to organize street demonstrations and riots in Mexico. They claimed only men—not women—can be admitted to the league and that its members are trained particularly for espionage and sabotage.

They charged a diplomatic incident is being planned to discredit the "good neighbor policies" of President Roosevelt and otherwise arouse ill feeling toward the United States if the American government becomes involved in the European war on the side of Britain.

OHIO LISTS EIGHT AS VICTIMS OF MOTOR TRAFFIC

By International News Service
Traffic accidents in Ohio claimed at least eight victims over the week end, a survey revealed today. Three of the fatalities were pedestrians who were struck by trains.

Mrs. Myrtle Walker, 47, and Mrs. Florence Green, 50, both of Youngstown, were dead today as a result of an automobile crash on State Route 14 near Twinsburg. Husbands of both were seriously injured.

Mrs. Martha Davies, 31, of East Liverpool, daughter of F. L. Simmers, a pottery manufacturer, was killed in a head-on automobile crash on U. S. Route 30.

James B. Heffling, an employee at a nursery at Perry, O., was killed by a New York Central train as he walked along the tracks near Painesville.

Vera Crist, 21, of Glenford, became Licking County's fifth traffic fatality of the year when the car driven by her brother skidded head-on into another two miles west of Newark on Route 16.

Nineteen-year-old Betty Founce, of Fowlersville, Mich., was killed when she stepped into the path of a Big Four freight train at Dayton.

Ivan E. Alsapach, 45, a railroad brakeman of Marion, was killed while on his way to work when he was struck by a backing Erie freight train. Both legs were severed.

Cincinnati recorded its eighth fatality of the year as Elmer Graden, of suburban Fairfax, was fatally injured when his auto crashed into a loading platform.

Ohio School Enrollment Figure Shows Decrease

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17—Although school enrollments are going down in cities and exempted villages throughout the state, the decline is least in cities from 5,000 to 10,000 population.

This is the report of Dr. Thomas C. Holy of the Bureau of Educational Research, Ohio State University, following a state-wide survey. His present study does not include rural districts, but does cover schools having 60 percent of the total enrollment.

For every 100 pupils enrolled in cities and exempted villages in 1936 there are now only 92. In the small city classification, however, the enrollment this year is 97 as compared with 100 in 1936.

Although high school enrollments are still larger than they were four years ago, the effect of declining birthrate is beginning to be felt there. In grades on to eight, cities and exempted villages now have only 85 pupils for each 100 in 1936.

In another study, covering the entire state for the years 1927 to 1939, inclusive, and using 1927 as a base, or 100 percent, Dr. Holy found that in 1939 enrollment in the various grades were: first, 75 percent; second, 86 percent; third, 85 percent; fourth, 82 percent; fifth, 85 percent; sixth, 90 percent; seventh, 99 percent; eighth, 113 percent; ninth, 140 percent; tenth, 167 percent; eleventh, 182 percent; twelfth, 186 percent.

All grades had increased from 1929 to 1931, but all up to the eighth have declined steadily since 1931. Grades eight to 12 have been increasing each year from 1927 to 1939.

LIMA PLANT MAY BUILD TANKS FOR USE OF BRITISH

LIMA, Feb. 17—Although confirming reports of a $290,000 expansion program, officials of the Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., today refused to discuss rumors that the company has an order for 300 medium-sized tanks from the British government.

(In Washington, members of the British Purchasing Commission said only that "comment at this time is undesirable.")

Concrete foundations for new buildings already are being laid, and completion is scheduled for early May. Unofficial sources assert that production of 25-ton tanks will begin as soon as the buildings are finished.

These sources said that most castings would be made by the Ohio Steel Foundry in Lima and Springfield, and that the dies already have been completed.

If the rumor is correct, the tanks will comprise the first war order in the Lima area.

their "College of Musical Knowledge" broadcasts will come from there, as they did last season.

Official rating of the Madeline Gray "Bright Idea Club" now finds the series among the first three sustaining programs in popularity favor.

Costs are carefully explained and the family knows what the exact expenditure will be.

MORGENTHAU'S BANKERS

At a recent press conference with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, newsmen noticed on his desk the book, "Bankers Be Damned", by U. V. Wilcox. The author himself, who writes for The American Banker, was present at the conference.

"Are you reading this book, Mr. Secretary?" asked one of the newsmen with a wry smile, knowing that the book contained acridulous criticisms of the Treasury Department.

"Yes," replied Morgenthau, "I like to read fiction."

MOBILE HOUSING

Harried by the national criticism of failure to provide housing for defense workers, Defense Housing Coordinator Charles F. Palmer finally has proposed to Roosevelt that the Government buy fleets of trailers and rush them to the most congested industrial spots as temporary living quarters.

In submitting his plan, Palmer carefully avoided the term "trailers" and has cautioned his staff to refer to them as "mobile units". But never mind the fancy terminology. Plain, ordinary auto trailers are what he proposes to use.

Palmer contemplates the purchase of thousands of these homes on wheels, but where he is going to get them remains to be seen. A check of trailer manufacturers disclosed two interesting facts:

First, available at present are not more than 2,000 trailers, a drop in the bucket compared to the tens of thousands of housing units needed. Second, the plants are working day and night on urgent orders for the Army, and unless they suspend such operations, can't make trailers.

Meanwhile, with a vast army of migrated workers jammed into makeshift quarters, the defense housing problem daily becomes more alarming. Public health authorities are scared stiff over the danger of epidemics.

KRIVITSKY AND DIES

When J. B. Matthews, Dies Committee investigator, viewed the limp blood-stained body of Walter G. Krivitsky in a Washington hotel room, his thoughts flashed back to his first meeting with the former OGPU general, a meeting as strange almost as his death.

It was two years ago—April, 1939. Through grapevine channels Matthews learned that Krivitsky had reached this country safely after a narrow escape from Soviet assassins in France. The Dies Committee wanted him to testify and after weeks of intensive searching, Matthews located two intimate friends of Krivitsky in New York. They agreed to take him to the agent's hideout, providing he told no one of the visit and agreed to abide by Krivitsky's yes-or-no answer.

"What followed was the most fantastic ride I've ever taken," recalls Matthews. "We kept doubling back and traveling on dirt roads for hours. Finally we reached the house, a neat little bungalow on a backwoods farm. It was about 150 miles from New York, but I'd never be able to find the place again."

Krivitsky was secluded there with his wife and small son. At first he stubbornly refused to testify.

"Stalin's agents are after me and they won't give up," he said nervously. "I can't take the risk of appearing in public. I love my wife and baby too much."

Matthews pointed out that on the contrary he would be much safer if he showed himself public.

Growing flowers as a business was unknown in America previous to 1826. As late as 60 years ago, it was impossible to buy out flowers in some of the leading cities.

PRO-NAZI UNIT TO HARASS U. S. BEING CHECKED

Mexican Interior Office
Hears Reports About
Secret Society

DESERTERS QUESTIONED

Uprisings In Brazil, Other
Centers Hinted; Plot
Details Prepared

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 17.—A secret pro-Nazi organization allegedly embracing 150,000 members and preparing to foment trouble if the United States assumes an active role in the war was under investigation by the Mexican interior ministry today.

Deserters from the organization were reported to have informed authorities that armed raids across the southern Mexican border from Guatemala have been planned by the pro-Nazi group to create disturbances.

These sources said the organization has been named the "League of National Socialist Partisans" and that 250 Nazi Gestapo agents are in Mexico to guide its activities.

In addition, it was claimed that members of the Falange (Spanish Fascist) Society in Mexico are counted on to cooperate in causing disturbances in Mexico. According to this information, some 200,000 Falangists in Mexico look to Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco to give them the signal to start trouble.

Others To Rise

Deserters from the underground society claimed in their statements to authorities that all Nazi activities in Mexico would coincide with uprisings, sabotage and anti-American demonstrations in Brazil, Uruguay and other Latin-American countries.

These informants said a plot exists to organize street demonstrations and riots in Mexico. They claimed only men—not women—can be admitted to the league and that its members are trained particularly for espionage and sabotage.

They charged a diplomatic incident is being planned to discredit the "good neighbor policies" of President Roosevelt and otherwise arouse ill feeling toward the United States if the American government becomes involved in the European war on the side of Britain.

OHIO LISTS EIGHT AS VICTIMS OF MOTOR TRAFFIC

By International News Service
Traffic accidents in Ohio claimed at least eight victims over the week end, a survey revealed today. Three of the fatalities were pedestrians who were struck by trains.

Mrs. Myrtle Walker, 47, and Mrs. Florence Green, 50, both of Youngstown, were dead today as a result of an automobile crash on State Route 14 near Twinsburg. Husbands of both were seriously injured.

Mrs. Martha Davies, 31, of East Liverpool, daughter of F. L. Simmers, a pottery manufacturer, was killed in a head-on automobile crash on U. S. Route 30.

James B. Hefling, an employee at a nursery at Perry, O., was killed by a New York Central train as he walked along the tracks near Painesville.

Vera Crist, 21, of Glenford, became Licking County's fifth traffic fatality of the year when the car driven by her brother skidded head-on into another two miles west of Newark on Route 16.

Nineteen-year-old Betty Foulke, of Painesville, Mich., was killed when she stepped into the path of a Big Four freight train at Dayton.

Ivan E. Alsapach, 45, a railroad brakeman of Marion, was killed while on his way to work when he was struck by a backing Erie freight train. Both legs were severed.

Cincinnati recorded its eighth fatality of the year as Elmer Graden, of suburban Fairfax, was fatally injured when his auto crashed into a loading platform.

Ohio School Enrollment Figure Shows Decrease

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17.—Although school enrollments are going down in cities and exempted villages throughout the state, the decline is least in cities from 5,000 to 10,000 population.

This is the report of Dr. Thomas C. Holy of the Bureau of Educational Research, Ohio State University, following a state-wide survey. His present study does not include rural districts, but does cover schools having 60 percent of the total enrollment.

For every 100 pupils enrolled in cities and exempted villages in 1936 there are now only 92. In the small city classification, however, the enrollment this year is 97 as compared with 100 in 1936.

Although high school enrollments are still larger than they were four years ago, the effect of declining birthrate is beginning to be felt there. In grades on to eight, cities and exempted villages now have only 85 pupils for each 100 in 1936.

In another study, covering the entire state for the years 1927 to 1939, inclusive, and using 1927 as a base, or 100 percent, Dr. Holy found that in 1939 enrollment indexes for the various grades were: first, 75 percent; second, 86 percent; third, 85 percent; fourth, 82 percent; fifth, 85 percent; sixth, 90 percent; seventh, 99 percent; eighth, 113 percent; ninth, 140 percent; tenth, 167 percent; eleventh, 182 percent; twelfth, 186 percent.

All grades had increased from 1929 to 1931, but all up to the eighth have declined steadily since 1931. Grades eight to 12 have been increasing each year from 1927 to 1939.

LIMA PLANT MAY BUILD TANKS FOR USE OF BRITISH

LIMA, Feb. 17.—Although confirming reports of a $290,000 expansion program, officials of the Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., today refused to discuss rumors that the company has an order for 300 medium-sized tanks from the British government.

(In Washington, members of the British Purchasing Commission said only that "comment at this time is inadvisable.")

Concrete foundations for new buildings already are being laid, and completion is scheduled for early May. Unofficial sources assert that production of 25-ton tanks will begin as soon as the buildings are finished.

These sources said that most castings would be made by the Ohio Steel Foundry in Lima and Springfield, and that the dies already have been completed.

If the rumor is correct, the tanks will comprise the first war order in the Lima area.

their "College of Musical Knowledge" broadcasts will come from there, as they did last season.

OLD MAN KANGAROO

THE reason why the English people haven't been licked, and won't be, says a young American who was brought up on Kipling's stories, is the same as the reason why Yellow Dog Dingo chased Old Man Kangaroo clear across Australia and couldn't catch him.

The Kangaroo wasn't much of a runner when that race started. His legs were short and he was in poor form. But when Yellow Dog Dingo got after him, what happened?

"He ran through the desert; he ran through the mountains; he ran through the salt-pans; he ran through the reed-beds; he ran through the blue gums; he ran through the spinifex; he ran till his front legs ached.

"Still ran Dingo—Yellow Dog Dingo—always hungry, grinning like a rat-trap, never getting nearer, never getting farther—ran after Kangaroo.

"Still ran Kangaroo—Old Man Kangaroo. He ran through the ti-trees; he ran through the mulga; he ran through the long grass; he ran through the short grass; he ran through the tropics of Capricorn and Cancer; he ran till his hind legs ached. He had to!"

And as the Kangaroo ran, a miracle happened. His legs grew longer and stronger, and he found he could hop farther and farther, so that he steadily kept out of Dingo's reach, and finally Dingo gave up.

SPUDS HELP THE DOCTOR

DOCTORS have often told people who were trying to avoid starchy foods to cut down on breadstuffs but not to cut out potatoes. It was true that the humble spud contained starch, but it also contained food values which the body could ill spare.

Now, Dr. Henry A. Schroeder of the Hospital of the Rockefeller Institute in Washington, D. C., explains why. A common enzyme, the factor which causes the white potato to darken, will reduce dangerously high blood pressure in human patients and clear up the eye and heart symptoms that accompany it.

The enzyme, known as tyrosinase, is found in various fruits and vegetables, including bananas, mushrooms and apples. A pure preparation of the tyrosinase, used in treatment of high blood pressure, has been found encouragingly successful. The pressure fell significantly in 16 out of 17 test cases within three or four weeks.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

LEWIS ASKS $8 FOR 6-HOUR DAY

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis is keeping his own counsel, but privately he is cooking up a batch of demands that are going to give the mine operators convulsions when they meet with him early next month to negotiate a new union contract.

Chief proposals the United Mine Workers boss has up his sleeve are (1) a basic $8-a-day wage, (2) a 6-hour day.

Present average union wage scale is $5.50 for a 7-hour day, 5-day week. Highest miner pay was $7.50 for an 8-hour day, 6-day week during the World War, and again in 1928 under the so-called Jacksonville agreement, which later was repudiated by the operators during the Hoover depression.

Both the coal industry and the UMW sank to a low state in the ensuing years and it wasn't until the NRA, followed by the Bituminous Coal Act, put an end to cutthroat competition and gave the union legal recognition that both operators and miners got back on their feet.

Now, with the UMW contract expiring March 31, Lewis is out to capitalize on the defense program and the tremendous demand for coal. He is in a strategic position and intends to make the most of it.

Privately, government labor chiefs are fearful that Lewis is bent on a coal tie-up. He is bitterly against the President's foreign policies and defense program, and could almost paralyze both if the mines shut down.

Already there is a shortage of coke. Many beehive ovens, which make coke for small steel plants and which have been shut down for years, have been reopened in recent months. But still they are insufficient to meet the steadily rising demand. In 1929 there were 10,028 beehive ovens; now there are less than 1500 in operation, mostly located around Uniontown, Pa.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT

In preparation for putting up a stiff front, Lewis is collecting a special $2 assessment from every working member of the United Mine Workers, which will net some $600,000 for the union's war chest.

Principal arguments he will make for his wage-hour demands are rising living costs, high profits, and mechanization—which is throwing thousands of miners out of work despite increased coal output. He will point out that although mines are running full blast, more than 200,000 miners are unemployed; and propose to spread the work and absorb many jobless by cutting down the work day to six hours.

Nominally, Lewis will merely be chairman of the UMW negotiating committee of 16 and have only one vote. But actually he will be the whole show, through his power to hand-pick the committee. He has been getting ready for this by culling the list of UMW officials, and it's a safe bet features. One is their use in treatment of disease. The other is the fact that a normally varied diet contains the necessary elements for the prevention of many diseases.

DIET AND HEALTH

The Newer Vitamin E, and How It Acts

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Vitamin E is one of the newer vitamins and has proved of very considerable interest. It is fat-soluble and is found mostly in fatty parts of vegetables.

It was first known as the reproductive vitamin. If animal mothers are deprived of this vitamin in their diet, they are unable to bear living young. When Vitamin E is restored to the diet their reproductive functions are normal.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Chemically it contains several factors which are known as Alpha, Beta and Gamma Tocopherol, and it can be obtained in pure form under those names.

A sensational use for the vitamin has recently been found by Dr. Herbert Evans at the University of California. He experimented by giving animal mothers just enough of the vitamin to allow them to produce a living litter. He then deprived the mother of E entirely so that the animals got none in the milk and then he took it away from their diet. He thought that this might have some effect upon reproduction but, to his astonishment, what actually happened was that the animals became paralyzed. When Vitamin E is restored to the diet, the paralysis disappears. It has, therefore, been used in human medicine, given to people with various forms of paralysis. In one form at least it has proved of spectacular benefit, the cases being completely restored to health.

Vitamin H

Vitamin H is another new vitamin, but up to the present time no human conditions have been found to result from deficiency. It is necessary for certain animals. For instance, trout cannot be kept alive unless Vitamin H is added to the water of the stream.

Vitamin K is another new vitamin and is very useful. Its use has, in fact, solved one of the great problems of surgery—the tendency to hemorrhage in jaundice. Vitamin K is chemically of a fatty nature and it is known that fats do not absorb in the intestine until they are united with bile. In cases of obstructive jaundice, therefore, where no bile is in the intestine, K is not digested and is not absorbed and, therefore, there is a tendency to spontaneous hemorrhage in this condition. If the jaundice is due to gallstones it makes the operation quite hazardous. It is, therefore, a great boon to surgeons to have Vitamin K in these conditions and it is now given routinely to patients with jaundice, especially if they are being prepared for operation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. L. B.: "Please tell me if vision can be corrected. I have started wearing glasses recently and was told my vision can be corrected in one and a half to two years, but friends say I will have to wear glasses all my life."

Answer—Certain forms of vision are corrected in time by glasses. P. P. Y.: "If a person has gone away to the mountains for the tuberculosis health cure and then is discharged, is there a chance of others contracting his illness?"

Answer—In well conducted sanatoria for tuberculosis, a patient is not discharged until he is what is known as a "closed case," that is to say, is not bringing up sputum which contains tuberculosis germs and is, therefore, not of any danger to others.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Instructions for the Treatment of 'Feminine Hygiene' and 'The Care of the Hair and Skin'."

SYNOPSIS
BILL LATHAM, young novelist, has been jilted only seconds before he was to have gone to the altar. For the first time.

JOEL RANDALL, his older cousin, sees Bill's usual suavity and urbanity broken.

CHAPTER NINE

JOEL WENT ON into the bedroom as though he would have to postpone a little longer the business of living his own life.

Aunt Sallie watched Bill for a moment, and then she went in to be with Joel. She slipped an arm about his neck.

"Don't be too upset, Joel, honey," she said. "And do see that nothing happens to Bill. He's such a sort of."

"Unpredictable person," said Joel. "Yes, I've heard that one before also."

"He'll not stay up there with you very long," said Aunt Sallie. "He'll be coming back, and then you can have the Eveless Eden vacation you've been looking forward to."

"Do you really think so, Aunt Sallie?"

"Of course I do. Bill'll be bored after a while."

"All right," said Joel. "If I have anything to do with it, he'll be bored to a fare you well. I'll make him loathe the very sight of a mountain."

"Joel!" Aunt Sallie cried. "You sound downright desperate."

"I am downright desperate," said Joel. He gave his aunt a kiss and pushed her out of the room. "Get along with you, Aunt Sallie. I want to change into my oldest pants. I'm leaving right away."

But Joel was wrong. He didn't leave right away.

By the time Bill had got through telephoning about his trunk, and the tickets, and by the time the trunk had been delivered at the apartment, it was ten o'clock.

Joel sighed and began to unlace his shoes.

"I'm going to bed," he said. "No need trying to get away now until morning. Good night, you two."

"But I've got to get home!" said Aunt Sallie.

"Bill can take you home!" said Joel. "The car's down front. Be sure and lock it when you get back, Bill, and bring me the key."

"Good Lord, Joel," said Bill. "I don't want to go out anywhere tonight. Somebody may recognize me, and—"

"What of it?" said Joel. "Wear my overcoat and hat if you want to be disguised. I'll drop by in the morning, Aunt Sallie, and say goodby." He went into the bedroom and closed the door.

It was late evening of the following day when Joel and Bill reached the last lap of their journey. They were now high in the mountains of western North Carolina.

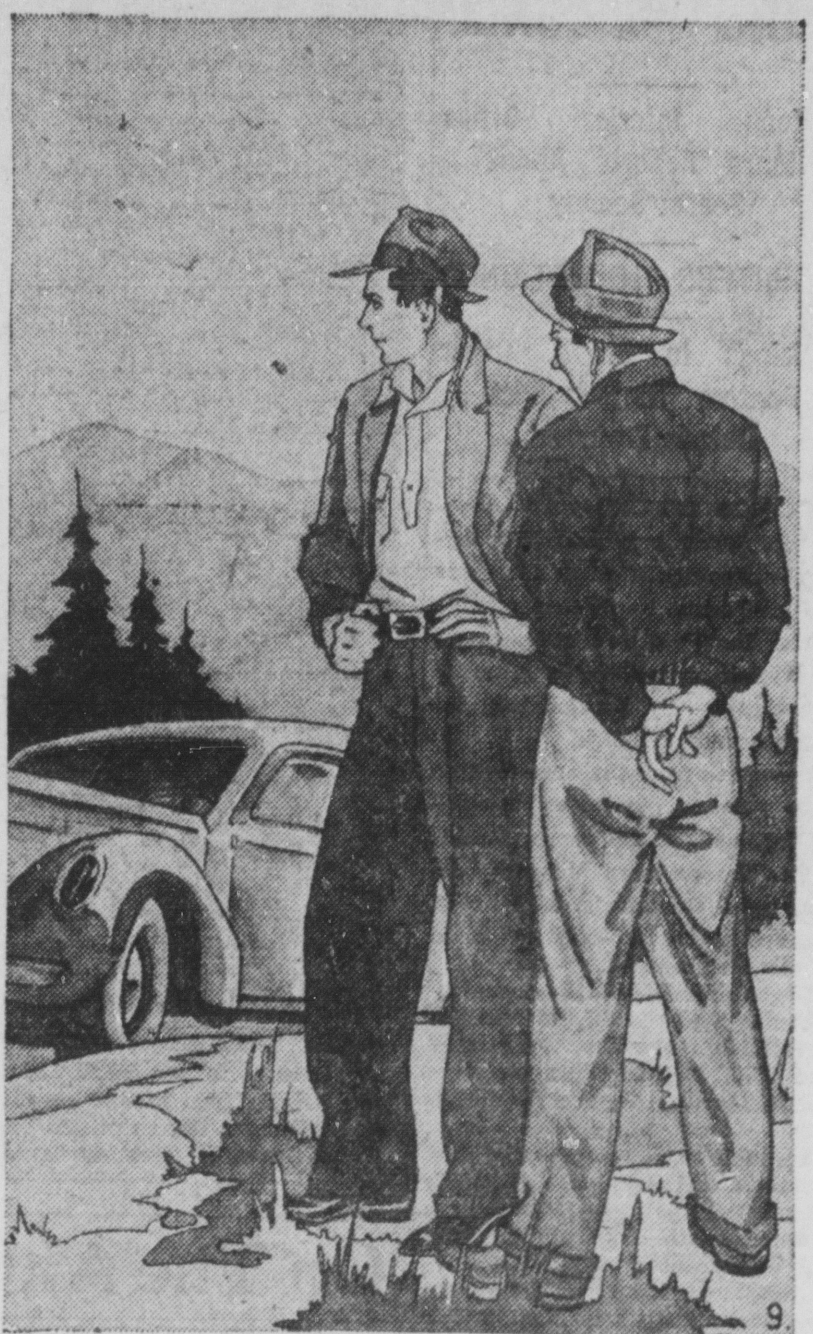

Rang upon range of mountains, blue-tinted here and touched with lavender there. Lovely. Peaceful. Rather like a Maxfield Parrish painting, Joel thought. Mount Pisgah and The Red over there to the east—outlined like a fantastic silhouette against the fast darkening sky.

He thought of his Uncle John, and the times the two of them had come up together.

"Joel, boy," Uncle John had once said, "I always feel a sort of all-filled-up sensation when I reach this particular spot. It awes me, makes me realize how insignificant a man really is." A pause, and then: "I always think, too, that no man could remain an unbeliever, once he's got a glimpse of such scenery as this. He would be bound to admit that there was a Creator—something a lot bigger than he is."

"Yes, sir," Joel had said. "I feel the same way about it."

He had loved coming up here with his uncle, the two of them playing at being bachelors, being just as masculine as they wanted to be, with no woman around to "This place never changes," said Bill.

There'll be the cabin waiting to welcome us."

"Darned if you don't go sentimental as the dickens when you speak of the cabin," said Bill.

"Maybe. Say, I wish Uncle John were here to enjoy it with us."

The lavender was deepening over the mountains. They now looked almost purple. The Blue Ridges had become another color—preparing for a deep and soundless sleep. The boughs of the trees which bordered the narrow road brushed the top of the car. Once Joel stopped to lift a bough upon which was built a bird's nest. The bird fluttered off to light upon a nearby limb, watching, alert, nervous.

"Good Lord, Joel," Bill said impatiently, "what's the idea doing that?"

"The nest would have been knocked down," Joel said, as he got back into the car.

"You mean you'd hold us up just to—"

"There were eggs in it," Joel went on. "I saw them. A greenish blue, with small brown spots."

"Well, step on it," Bill urged. "It'll be dark soon, and we ought to get our stuff moved into the cabin before all the daylight is gone."

"We've got kerosene," said Joel. "And there are lamps in the cabin. We don't have to worry about the darkness catching us."

"Okay," said Bill. He slid down into the seat and lit a cigarette. "We would have been here a lot sooner if you hadn't taken so much time in Asheville buying groceries. Why couldn't we have waited and driven in for them tomorrow?"

"Because I'm not going to be making trips down to Asheville," said Joel. "We came up here to be primitive, and we're going to be primitive."

"But, listen, Joel—"

"And don't get the idea you are going to be using my car for excursions down to see movies, or get hotel meals."

"Good Lord, you don't mean you intend making hermits of both of us?"

"I do."

BADGERS TANGLE WITH PURDUE '5' IN CRUCIAL TILT

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—Wisco- sin's league leading Badgers will be gunning for their second vic- tory of the season over Purdue's defending champions tonight in a resumption of Big Ten basket- ball warfare which brings all teams into action.

Sharing interest with the Wis- consin-Purdue clash will be the game between second place Indi- ana and Ohio State's Buckeyes, while the rest of the schedule pits Iowa against Illinois, Minnesota against Northwestern, and Michi- gan against Chicago.

The Badgers and Hoosiers con- tinued to pace the conference with victories Saturday night. Wisco- sin beat Illinois, 46-30, and Indi- ana beat Minnesota, 44-34. In the other games, Michigan upset Iowa, 40-29, Ohio State swamped Purdue, 57-38, and Northwestern handed Chicago its seventh straight defeat, 41-36.

Wisconsin and Indiana each has lost one game, but the Badgers have rung up seven victories to the Hoosiers' six. Should both continue through this week's sched- ule of two games each without additional losses, their clash a week from tonight may decide the title.

The Buckeyes, with their win over the injury-riddled Boil- makers, advanced to third place over the week end, with five wins in eight games. Purdue and Min- nesota went into a tie for fourth with four wins each in seven con- tests. Illinois was next with a .500 percentage in eight games, followed by Iowa, which has won three out of seven; Northwestern, with two wins out of seven; Michi- gan, with two victories in eight tilts, and Chicago, loser of seven straight.

JUNIOR AT NYU RATES HONOR AS FASTEST MILER

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK, Feb. 17—Track and field fans who wondered when we'd ever see another Glenn Cunningham, need wonder no longer today.

He is here already and his name is Leslie MacMittell, a tall, black-haired 20-year-old junior at New York University.

It was he who equalled the best time ever made in a competitive mile when he covered the route in 4:07.4 in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The youngster had to be that good to get the nod over the veteran Walter Mehl in the finish of the Baxter Mile.

The youngster has learned all the tricks of the track. He now knows how to pace himself and when to make his bid.

He calmly followed a blistering 59.4 pace set by Luigi Beccali and then dogged Mehl's steps through a 2:02½ and 3:07.3½.

BUCKEYES PLAY INDIANA; PURDUE THUMPED, 57-38

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17 — When- ever Ohio State University's bas- ketball team is playing on its home grounds at the Ohio Fair- grounds coliseum, its a better than even bet that the Buckeyes will come in the victor. So the Scarlet is an even-bet to thrash Indiana tonight when the two teams tangle in a Big Ten engagement in the big semi-cattle barn.

The Staters will be after their 20th consecutive Big Ten win on their home floor, having polished off Purdue Saturday night, 57-38.

before more than 5,500 stunned — but pleasantly stunned — fans. The loss just about sunk Purdue's chances, while the victory pushed the Bucks into the first division of the conference race with five wins and three losses.

Dick Fisher, the Buckeye's hard- working forward, took over the Big Ten scoring lead when he whipped 16 points through the hoop to raise his eight-game total to 108 points. Joe Stampf, Chi- cago front court ace, also tallied 19 points to take over the second spot with 104 tallies while Gene Englund, of Wisconsin, could score but 11 points as the Badgers were winning from Illinois and slipped to third with 103.

Sparkling the State victory over Purdue, however, wasn't the high- scoring Fisher but a gangling sophomore named Maxie Gewoets from Mark Center. With about 150 of his fellow townsmen look- ing on, Gewoets plunked through 15 points and was the outstanding defensive man on the court. When he left the game late in the final frame, he received an ovation sel- dom heard on the Buckeye courts since the days of John Miner.

Against Indiana tonight, the Bucks will be facing the second- place team of the loop and last year's national champions.

"He's our 'sleeper,'" General Manager Larry MacPhail com- mented, going on to say that Har- old (Pete) Reiser is the answer to the Dodgers outfield problem.

Durocher planned another long period of calisthenics today fol- lowed by several rounds of bat- ting.

BADGERS TANGLE WITH PURDUE '5' IN CRUCIAL TILT

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Wisconsin's league leading Badgers will be gunning for their second victory of the season over Purdue's defending champions tonight in a resumption of Big Ten basketball warfare which brings all teams into action.

Sharing interest with the Wisconsin-Purdue clash will be the game between second place Indiana and Ohio State's Buckeyes, while the rest of the schedule pits Iowa against Illinois, Minnesota against Northwestern, and Michigan against Chicago.

The Badgers and Hoosiers continued to pace the conference with victories Saturday night. Wisconsin beat Illinois, 46-30, and Indiana beat Minnesota, 44-34. In the other games, Michigan upset Purdue, 57-38, and Northwestern handed Chicago its seventh straight defeat, 41-36.

Wisconsin and Indiana each has lost one game, but the Badgers have rung up seven victories to the Hoosiers' six. Should both continue through this week's schedule of two games each without additional losses, their clash a week from tonight may decide the title.

The Buckeyes, with their win over the injury-riddled Boiler-makers, advanced to third place over the week end, with five wins in eight games. Purdue and Minnesota went into a tie for fourth with four wins each in seven contests. Illinois was next with a .500 percentage in eight games, followed by Iowa, which has won three out of seven; Northwestern, with two wins out of seven; Michigan, with two victories in eight tilts, and Chicago, loser of seven straight.

JUNIOR AT NYU RATES HONOR AS FASTEST MILER

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Track and field fans who wondered when we'd ever see another Glenn Cunningham, need wonder no longer today.

He is here already and his name is Leslie MacMittell, a tall, black-haired 20-year-old junior at New York University.

It was he who equalled the best time ever made in a competitive mile when he covered the route in 4:07.4 in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The youngster had to be that good to get the nod over the veteran Walter Mehl in the finish of the Baxter Mile.

The youngster has learned all the tricks of the track. He now knows how to pace himself and when to make his bid.

He calmly followed a blistering 59.4% pace set by Luigi Beccali and then dogged Mehl's steps through a 2:02½ and 3:07.3%.

BUCKEYES PLAY INDIANA; PURDUE THUMPED, 57-38

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17.—When ever Ohio State University's basketball team is playing on its home grounds at the Ohio Fairgrounds coliseum, its a better than even bet that the Buckeyes will come in the victor. So the Scarlet is an even-bet to thrash Indiana tonight when the two teams tangle in a Big Ten engagement in the big semi-cattle barn.

The Staters will be after their 20th consecutive Big Ten win on their home floor, having polished off Purdue Saturday night, 57-38, before more than 5,500 stunned—but pleasantly stunned—fans. The loss just about sunk Purdue's chances, while the victory pushed the Bucks into the first division of the conference race with five wins and three losses.

Dick Fisher, the Buckeye's hard-working forward, took over the Big Ten scoring lead when he whipped 19 points through the hoop to raise his eight-game total to 108 points. Joe Stampf, Chicago front court ace, also tallied 19 points to take over the second spot with 104 tallies while Gene Englund, of Wisconsin, could score but 11 points as the Badgers were winning from Illinois and slipped to third with 103.

Sparkling the State victory over Purdue, however, wasn't the high-scoring Fisher but a gangling sophomore named Maxie Gewocets from Mark Center. With about 150 of his fellow townsmen looking on, Gewocets plunked through 15 points and was the outstanding defensive man on the court. When he left the game late in the final frame, he received an ovation seldom heard on the Buckeye courts since the days of John Miner.

Against Indiana tonight, the Bucks will be facing the second-place team of the loop and last year's national champions.

VAN MUNGO SAYS ARM READY FOR GOOD WORK

HAVANA, Feb. 17.—The Brooklyn Dodgers' perennially ailing pitcher, Van Lingle Mungo, whose sore right arm kept him on the sidelines last season, brought new joy to Manager Lippy Leo Durocher today when he reported the arm seems well.

"I'm going to take it easy a while," Mungo said, "but I've a hunch I'll be out there pitching again this year."

"He's our 'sleeper,'" General Manager Larry MacPhail commented, going on to say that Harold (Pete) Reiser is the answer to the Dodgers outfield problem.

Durocher planned another long period of callisthenics today followed by several rounds of batting.

CAWTHON TO GET JOB

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—Pete Cawthon, former Texas Tech football coach, was reported to have the inside track today to the coaching job open at the University of San Francisco. The university's board of athletic control gathered today to select a successor to George "Duke" Malley, who resigned, and Cawthon was known to be among applicants for the post.

If It's Heavily Advertised It HAS to be GOOD

OUR BRAND of democracy was won for us, and is being held for us, by men who chose their own careers, owned big farms, built big factories, and did what selling was necessary to keep those farms and factories busy.

One of the biggest aids in mass selling is mass advertising. In the long run, it "polices" itself.

Advertising of poor products always fails. Only a first rate product, fairly priced, can stand the dazzling glare of national advertising. When you think of the heavily advertised soups, soaps, breakfast foods, mechanical refrigerators, automobiles, silverware, radios—you are thinking of the aristocrats among commercial articles.

Welding Class Begins Tonight

Eighteen Men Assigned To Receiving Special Training Under National Defense Program

Circleville's second defense training class, established under authorization of the Board of Education and the federal government, swings into action Monday evening in the High School building under the supervision of Orville Smith of Columbus, a former welding expert for the Owens-Illinois Glass Company of Columbus.

A class in drafting was started last Wednesday evening, and has proven very successful so far. Charles Rader of Circleville is in charge of this group of men, being trained from 6 p. m. to 12 midnight each evening. Half of the number of men receiving training in drafting are applicants, many of whom have other jobs but wish additional training, while the other half are assigned from WPA rosters.

LECTURE HEARD AT HIGH SCHOOL

Charles V. Winn, Pasadena, Speaks Before Large Audience

Editor's Note: The following address was delivered Sunday afternoon in Circleville High School auditorium by Charles V. Winn, C.S.R., of Pasadena, California, member of the board of lecture of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The auditorium was so crowded that many persons were unable to hear the lecture. Many persons from out-of-town attended the lecture.

History records the human race's effort to obtain a greater sense of freedom. All right endeavor is impelled by a desire to overcome that which limits or restricts, and to attain that which brings freedom and liberation. The human race, on its upward march, has instinctively rebelled against anything that would try to take away its religious, political or economic liberty. This righteous aspiration for freedom is not a mere human hope, but has its basis in divine Truth. In the very beginning of the Bible we learn that "God created the heaven and the earth." We further learn that God said, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion." "Dominion" means "sovereign power"; then man's freedom is a part of the divine order of things—God-bestowed and God-established. In our own immortal Declaration of Independence, that charter of American liberty, we read that God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Freedom, then, is man's natural status, bestowed on him by his creator.

Christ Jesus Brought Freedom

In looking back upon the lives of those who have been the greatest benefactors of our race, there is one who stands out above them all—our great Master, Jesus the Christ. He possessed and demonstrated a greater measure of freedom than anyone who has ever lived. He overcame and destroyed every form of bondage that flesh is heir to. He completely annulled the seeming fetters of sin, poverty, heredity, disease, discord, and even triumphed over death itself. It made no difference whether he was in a raging storm, whether he was confronted by an angry mob, seeming lack, contagious disease, or imminent death; he experienced complete immunity and freedom from evil. False theology has taught us that he was endowed with some supernatural power which made this possible, but the Biblical record and secular history completely refute this. The Scriptures contain unfulfilled promises that many others besides Jesus availed themselves of divine power and thus attained their freedom from adverse conditions. In Gibbon's history of the Roman Empire it is recorded that this spiritual power was utilized for three hundred years after the ascension of Jesus. It was only after corruption and materiality had crept into the early Christian church that this healing power seemed to be lost and to become dormant.

Discovery of Christian Science

Finally, in 1866, after the conclusion of a great struggle in America for human rights and liberty, there came to a gentle New England woman, Mary Baker Eddy, a divine revelation that won her freedom from the results of a serious accident and impending death. Having gained her own liberation, she set about to discover the divine law that had healed her. Through prayer, earnest seeking, and a diligent study of the Scriptures, she found that her healing was not miraculous, but was in perfect accord with God's will and the divine law. The results of her labors are most beautifully and clearly set forth in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," where she writes (p. 226): "The voice of God in behalf of the African slave was still echoing in our land, when the voice of the herald of this new crusade sounded the keynote of universal freedom, asking a fuller acknowledgment of the rights of man as a Son of God, demanding that the fetters of sin, sickness, and death be stricken from the human mind and that its freedom be won, not through human warfare, not with bayonet and blood, but through Christ's divine Science."

Container Firm Adds New Plant

President Of Company Announces Purchase Of Assets Of Factory In Baltimore, Md.

Walter P. Paepcke, president, announced in Chicago, Monday, that Container Corporation of America, manufacturer of pulp, paperboard and shipping containers, has acquired the assets of Reed Container Company of Baltimore. Container Corporation will take charge of the Baltimore plant Tuesday.

The corporation operates a paperboard plant in Circleville, in addition to mills and factories in Philadelphia, Natick, Mass., Chicago and Rock Island, Ill.; Wabash, Carthage and Anderson, Ind.; Cleveland and Cincinnati, O.; Wilmington, Del.; Fort Worth, Texas, and Fernandina, Fla. The local plant is one of the biggest in the Container Corporation organization.

"The Reed Company, which makes corrugated shipping boxes, was acquired," Mr. Paepcke said, "as another step in the corporation's policy to widen progressively the geographical area of its manufacturing and service facilities. I am confident the combined abilities of the Reed and Container Corporation organizations will raise substantially the speed and quality of service to users of shipping containers in the Baltimore area," Mr. Paepcke added.

Appointment of G. H. Linde of Philadelphia, who has been with Container Corporation many years, as manager of the Baltimore division, also was announced. Mr. Linde has been assistant sales manager at the company's Philadelphia plant. Prior to that assignment, he was sales manager of the Natick, Mass. factory.

OHIO STATE STARTING SPRING GRID PRACTICE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17 — Paul Brown, new Ohio State University football coach, sees his squad for the first time Wednesday when pre-spring practice gets under way.

The first few sessions will be devoted to lectures in which Brown will outline his system to his charges. Actual practice on formation will get under way February 24, and the present series of practices, held in the gymnasium, will continue until March 12.

In the meantime, final plans are being made for the annual state high school wrestling championships to be held at Ohio State on February 28 and March 1. Preliminaries will be held during the day February 28, quarter and semi-finals that night, and the championships the following afternoon and night.

AAA COMPLIANCE OF IMPORTANCE, CHAIRMAN SAYS

Compliance with the corn acreage allotments of the 1941 AAA program is more important to Pickaway County and all Corn Belt farmers than ever before, according to John G. Boggs, chairman of the county AAA committee.

Because of the European War and the national defense program, abundant allowance was made for emergency needs and the 1941 allotment for the commercial corn area was kept at the 1940 level, John G. Boggs declared. Under normal conditions, the provisions of the AAA Act of 1938 would have brought about lower allotments in order to balance supplies with actual needs.

"Holding allotments at last year's levels is a safety measure for the Nation, but it also carries some risk for corn farmers," he pointed out. "If many farmers stay out of the program or if yields are above normal, we are almost sure to produce more corn than we need. If we continue to produce more corn than we need, the security for Government loans will be threatened," he warned.

United States farmers in 1940 produced nearly 250,000,000 bushels of corn above the 2,200,000,000 bushels which would have been enough to keep corn supplies at a desirable level. The United States corn supply at the beginning of the present marketing year was 3,150,000,000 bushels—nearly the largest on record. Including other feeds, the Nation has a record feed supply on hand—enough to produce more meat and livestock products than the American public has even consumed in any one year.

Chris Kainrad, member of the State AAA committee, will meet with county and township AAA officials Thursday in Memorial Hall to discuss corn and wheat marketing quotas. The meeting will open at 9:30 a. m. and continue through the day, all interested persons invited to attend.

TWO LONDON PRISONERS BACK AFTER WALKAWAY

LONDON, Feb. 17 — Two prisoners who walked away from the London Prison Farm's honor dormitory January 25 have been returned to the institution. Supt. W. F. Amrine announced today.

The inmates, George Rogers, 30, and Virgil Webb, 28, were captured by Tennessee state police and waived extradition. Rogers, alias Clarence Crawford, entered prison in October, 1938, to serve a one-to-two-year auto theft sentence from Hamilton County. Webb was received at the penitentiary in June, 1938, from Franklin County to serve one to 20 years for larceny.

BANKER'S WIFE DIES

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17 — The body of Mrs. Minnie Bertrand Partl, wife of Joseph F. Partl, president of the Atlas National Bank and the Cincinnati Clearing House, will be returned to Cincinnati for funeral services Wednesday. Mrs. Partl died of a heart attack at St. Petersburg, Fla.

C. OF C.'S SHOW HUGE SUCCESS

Merchants, Farmers Pleased By Corn And Soybean Competition

Circleville merchants and Pickaway County agricultural men closed their Corn and Soybean Show Saturday afternoon, labeling it outstanding in number and quality of exhibits.

One hundred and seventy individual displays of corn and 15 displays of soybeans were shown. The total number of exhibits surpassed last year's by 56.

Although attendance at Friday evening's banquet was larger than had been expected, officials of the show stated that the number who visited the exhibits in Memorial Hall on Friday afternoon and Saturday was not as large as they had hoped it would be.

Feature of Saturday's program was a discussion on hybrid corn, beginning at 2 p. m. in Memorial Hall. The discussion was led by F. D. Richey, Ashville hybrid corn producer. County Agent F. K. Blair was in charge of the program.

Farmers began removing their displays at 4 p. m. Saturday and by 5 o'clock the hall had been cleared.

Grand champion winner in the corn class was Irvin Yeoman, New Holland, and in the soybean show it was L. R. McCoy, Monroe Township.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

AIRPLANES FOR RUSSIA
On September 5, 1919, William E. Borah addressed the Senate as follows: "Mr. President, we are not at war with Russia. Yet, while we are not at war, while Congress has not declared war, we are carrying on war with the Russian people. We have an army in Russia, we are furnishing munitions and supplies to armed forces in that country. This is being done without constitutional authority."

This was almost a year after the Armistice. American fathers and mothers had begun to ask in angry tones why 10,000 of their sons, conscripted by Congress for war against Germany, were still in an undeclared war waged by President Wilson in Siberia to bring sweetness and light to Moscow.

The Senate unanimously adopted a resolution introduced by Senator Johnson of California demanding to be informed why troops had been sent to Siberia without the consent of Congress to engage in a civil war between Red and White Russia.

This is something of a commentary upon Bill 1776 which is before the present Congress and under which Secretary Stimson admits the PETTENGILL, President might send the navy, if not the army, to any part of the world.

By way of reply to the Senate's resolution in 1919 our State Department in a letter to Senator Wadsworth declared that it was the policy of the government "to refuse export licenses for shipments to Russian territory under Bolshevik control." And this for the reason that "it is the declared purpose of the Bolsheviks in Russia to carry revolution throughout the world. They have availed themselves of every opportunity to initiate in the United States a propaganda aimed at the forcible overthrow of our present form of government."

That was in 1919. The scene now changes to January 21, 1940. On that date Under Secretary of State Welles wrote Soviet Ambassador Oumansky that he was "happy to inform you" that the "moral embargo" of a year ago on American airplanes, equipment, etc., was "no longer applicable to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

A year ago, when Russia was crushing gallant little Finland, she was immoral. Now she has become moral. But Germany, Italy and Japan remain immoral. The only full sized Ambassador we have in Europe is our man at Moscow where he has stayed even during Russia's immoral periods.

Yet this is the same government the Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations refused to recognize. The government that Wilson sent soldiers to Siberia to help crush, now receives airplanes from her devoted Uncle Sam. No doubt this makes sense in Washington and New York City, but elsewhere I can't find any one intelligent enough to understand it.

Although Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward Germany is strictly Wilsonian, the approach of the two men is different. Mr. Wilson had a sort of cast iron conscience. He could not bend it to make the Czar of all the Russians his ally in a war against the Kaiser under the Holy Banner of "making the world safe for democracy."

That was too much for Mr. Wilson. The noble democracies of England and France were happy to be fighting alongside of the Czar in 1917, as they equally desired Stalin in 1939. But Mr. Wilson was the prisoner of his rhetoric.

Consequently, he was immensely relieved when the Kerensky revolution resulted in the abdication of Czar Nicholas II on March 15, 1917.

Welding Class Begins Tonight

Eighteen Men Assigned To Receiving Special Training Under National Defense Program

Circleville's second defense training class, established under authorization of the Board of Education and the federal government, swings into action Monday evening in the High School building under the supervision of Orville Smith of Columbus, a former welding expert for the Owens-Illinois Glass Company of Columbus.

A class in drafting was started last Wednesday evening, and has proven very successful so far. Charles Rader of Circleville is in charge of this group of men, being trained from 6 p. m. to 12 midnight each evening. Half of the number of men receiving training in drafting are applicants, many of whom have other jobs but wish additional training, while the other half are assigned from WPA rosters.

LECTURE HEARD AT HIGH SCHOOL

Charles V. Winn, Pasadena, Speaks Before Large Audience

Editor's Note: The following address was delivered Sunday afternoon in Circleville High School auditorium by Charles V. Winn, C.S.B., of Pasadena, California, member of the board of trustees of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The auditorium was so crowded that many persons were unable to hear the lecture. Many persons from out-of-town attended the lecture.

History records the human race's effort to obtain a greater sense of freedom. All right endeavor is impelled by a desire to overcome that which limits or restricts, and to attain that which brings freedom and liberation. The human race, on its upward march, has instinctively rebelled against anything that would try to take away its religious, political or economic liberty. This righteous aspiration for freedom is not a mere human hope, but has its basis in divine Truth. In the very beginning of the Bible we learn that "God created the heaven and the earth." We further learn that God said, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion." "Dominion" means "sovereign power"; then man's freedom is a part of the divine order of things—God-bestowed and God-established. In our own immortal Declaration of Independence, that charter of American liberty, we read that God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Freedom, then, is man's natural status, bestowed on him by his creator.

TWO PENALIZED SEVERELY AFTER VIOLATING LAWS

Determined to check the number of persons arrested in the vicinity of Circleville on intoxication charges, local magistrates more than doubled the penalties against two "repeaters" Sunday.

Roy Smith, 819 Clinton Street, arrested Friday night at 9:30 when, driving east on Corwin Street, ran a stop sign at South Court Street and struck the automobile of Charles Lagore, South Court Street, was fined $200 and costs and committed to County Jail. The two passengers in the Smith car, Joe Hickey and Neil Hessinger, each was fined $15 and costs and committed to jail. May or William Cady, who sentenced Smith, said Smith had been before him on another drunken driving charge some time ago.

Harry James of Circleville, who has been in County Jail five times on intoxication charges and was released last week, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced Sunday to 60 days in County Jail by Justice of Peace E. T. Hedges. James was arrested Saturday night by J. E. Van Fausen, Tarleton constable, after he had disturbed residents of Tarleton by ringing the firebell and conducting himself in a disorderly manner.

Earl Trego, Williamsport, arrested Friday night by Patrolmen George Green and Elmer Merriam for driving when intoxicated, forfeited his $100 bond when he failed to appear before Mayor Cady Saturday night. Trego was arrested after his car had struck the automobile of Charles A. Schieser, Groveport. Police said Schieser was traveling east on Main Street when Trego turned and headed west on the wrong side of the street.

William S. Mounts, 229 Logan Street, was arrested at 3:15 a. m. Sunday for driving on South Court Street when under the influence of alcohol. The arrest was made by Patrolmen George Green and Merchant Policeman Walter Crisinger. Mounts posted $115 bond to appear before Mayor Cady Monday night at 7 o'clock.

In the meantime, final plans are being made for the annual state high school wrestling championships to be held at Ohio State on February 28 and March 1.

AAA COMPLIANCE OF IMPORTANCE, CHAIRMAN SAYS

Compliance with the corn acreage allotments of the 1941 AAA program is more important to Pickaway County and all Corn Belt farmers than ever before, according to John G. Boggs, chairman of the county AAA committee.

Because of the European War and the national defense program, abundant allowance was made for emergency needs and the 1941 allotment for the commercial corn area was kept at the 1940 level, John G. Boggs declared. Under normal conditions, the provisions of the AAA Act of 1938 would have brought about lower allotments in order to balance supplies with actual needs.

"Holding allotments at 'last year's levels is a safety measure for the Nation, but it also carries some risk for corn farmers," he pointed out. "If many farmers stay out of the program or if yields are above normal, we are almost sure to produce more corn than we need. If we continue to produce more corn than we need, the security for Government loans will be threatened," he warned.

United States farmers in 1940 produced nearly 250,000,000 bushels of corn above the 2,200,000,000 bushels which would have been enough to keep corn supplies at a desirable level. The United States corn supply at the beginning of the present marketing year was 3,150,000,000 bushels—nearly the largest on record. Including other feeds, the Nation has a record feed supply on hand—enough to produce more meat and livestock products than the American public has even consumed in any one year.

Chris Kainrad, member of the State AAA committee, will meet with county and township AAA officials Thursday in Memorial Hall to discuss corn and wheat marketing quotas. The meeting will open at 9:30 a. m. and continue through the day, all interested persons invited to attend.

Two London prisoners back after walkaway. LONDON, Feb. 17 — Two prisoners who walked away from the London Prison Farm's honor dormitory January 25 have been returned to the institution, Supt. W. F. Amrine announced today.

The inmates, George Rogers, 30, and Virgil Webb, 28, were captured by Tennessee state police and waived extradition.

Rogers, alias Clarence Crawford, entered prison in October, 1938, to serve a one-to-20-year auto theft sentence from Hamilton County. Webb was received at the penitentiary in June, 1938, from Franklin County to serve one to 20 years for larceny.

BANKER'S WIFE DIES. CINCINNATI, Feb. 17 — The body of Mrs. Minnie Bertrand Partl, wife of Joseph F. C. OF C.'S SHOW HUGE SUCCESS

Merchants, Farmers Pleased By Corn And Soybean Competition

Circleville merchants and Pickaway County agricultural men closed their Corn and Soybean Show Saturday afternoon, labeling it outstanding in number and quality of exhibits.

One hundred and seventy individual displays of corn and 15 displays of soybeans were shown. The total number of exhibits surpassed last year's by 56.

Although attendance at Friday evening's banquet was larger than had been expected, officials of the show stated that the number who visited the exhibits in Memorial Hall on Friday afternoon and Saturday was not as large as they had hoped it would be.

Feature of Saturday's program was a discussion on hybrid corn, beginning at 2 p. m. in Memorial Hall. The discussion was led by F. D. Richey, Ashville hybrid corn producer. County Agent F. K. Blair was in charge of the program.

Farmers began removing their displays at 4 p. m. Saturday and by 5 o'clock the hall had been cleared.

Grand champion winner in the corn class was Irvin Yeoman, New Holland, and in the Soybean show it was L. R. McCoy, Monroe Township.

PETTENGILL "The Gentleman from Indiana"

AIRPLANES FOR RUSSIA

On September 5, 1919, William E. Borah addressed the Senate as follows: "Mr. President, we are not at war with Russia. Yet, while we are not at war, while Congress has not declared war, we are carrying on war with the Russian people. We have an army in Russia, we are furnishing munitions and supplies to armed forces in that country. This is being done without constitutional authority."

This was almost a year after the Armistice. American fathers and mothers had begun to ask in angry tones why 10,000 of their sons, conscripted by Congress for war against Germany, were still in an undeclared war waged by President Wilson in Siberia to bring sweetness and light to Moscow.

The Senate unanimously adopted a resolution introduced by Senator Johnson of California demanding to be informed why troops had been sent to Siberia without the consent of Congress to engage in a civil war between Red and White Russia.

This is something of a commentary upon Bill 1776 which is before the present Congress and under which Secretary Stimson admits the PETTENGILL President might send the navy, if not the army, to any part of the world.

By way of reply to the Senate's resolution in 1919 our State Department in a letter to Senator Wadsworth declared that it was the policy of the government "to refuse export licenses for shipments to Russian territory under Bolshevik control." And this for the reason that "it is the declared purpose of the Bolsheviks in Russia to carry revolution throughout the world. They have availed themselves of every opportunity to initiate in the United States a propaganda aimed at the forcible overthrow of our present form of government."

That was in 1919. The scene now changes to January 21, 1940. On that date Under Secretary of State Welles wrote Soviet Ambassador Oumansky that he was "happy to inform you" that the "moral embargo" of a year ago on American airplanes, equipment, etc., was "no longer applicable to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

A year ago, when Russia was crushing gallant little Finland, she was immoral. Now she has become moral. But Germany, Italy and Japan remain immoral. The only full sized Ambassador we have in Europe is our man at Moscow where he has stayed even during Russia's immoral periods. Yet this is the same government the Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations refused to recognize. The government that Wilson sent soldiers to Siberia to help crush, now receives airplanes from her devoted Uncle Sam. No doubt this makes sense in Washington and New York City, but elsewhere I can't find any one intelligent enough to understand it.

Although Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward Germany is strictly Wilsonian, the approach of the two men is different. Mr. Wilson had a sort of cast iron conscience. He could not bend it to make the Czar of all the Russians his ally in a war against the Kaiser under the Holy Banner of "making the world safe for democracy."

That was too much for Mr. Wilson. The noble democracies of England and France were happy to be fighting alongside of the Czar in 1917, as they equally desired Stalin in 1939. But Mr. Wilson was the prisoner of his rhetoric.

Consequently, he was immensely relieved when the Keresky revolution resulted in the abdication of Czar Nicholas II on March 15, 1917. In seven days Mr. Wilson recognized the new government. His conscience was satisfied. Now he could fight. Fifteen days later, on his recommendation, Congress declared war on Germany.

In his war message of April 2, 1917, Mr. Wilson said of Russia, "The autocracy that crowned the summit of her political structure has now been shaken off and the great, generous Russian people have been added in all their naive majesty and might to the forces that are fighting for freedom in the world, for justice, and for peace. Here is a fit partner for a League of Honor."

There was an epidemic of fifteen dollar words in Washington at the time and it was contagious. A month later Secretary Lansing and Commissioner Elihu Root became afflicted. Lansing wrote, "To stand side by side, shoulder to shoulder against autocracy will unite the American and Russian peoples in a friendship of the ages." And Root, equally ecstatic, said in Petrograd, "The American democracy sends to the democracy of Russia greetings, sympathy, friendship, brotherhood and God speed."

The "friendship of the ages" lasted eleven months. Lenin overthrew Keresky. Russia walked out of the war. Wilson sent troops to Siberia. He brought them home leaving the Reds to destroy "the four freedoms" by butchering millions at home, and raping Finland and Poland abroad. There they have been busy with their mass murders until this year of grace when we seek to "appease" the bloodiest dictator of all time with airplanes and words. We swat Hitler and the Japs and guddle up to Big Joe. Figure it out for yourself.

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL.
